

The Little Give Judges

Pamela Chaloult

Pamela Chaloult is Chief Operating Officer for Renewal, a collection of organizations that provides investments, grants and collaborations for long term societal solutions and Vice President of the new social investment fund Renewal2. She also serves as senior advisor to Hollyhock and Tides Canada Foundation. Previously, Pamela served as Co-Executive Director of Social Venture Network (SVN), as Communications and Marketing Director for California Institute of Integral Studies (CIIS), and Communications Director for Planned Parenthood. Before joining the nonprofit sector, she led the marketing and advertising efforts for the CBS affiliate KPIX TV & Radio and for a variety of film and entertainment groups in Los Angeles. Pamela is a member of the Women's Executive Network, Association of Women in Finance, Social Venture Network and sits on a variety of social purpose boards across North America.

Myrna Khan

Myrna Khan, Vice President, Canadian Business for Social Responsibility, has been with the organization since 2001. As Vice President, she is responsible for leading the member engagement and advisory services teams. Both teams provide guidance and candid counsel on CSR and sustainability issues to CCSR member companies. Her areas of expertise are employee engagement, stakeholder engagement, CSR strategy and reporting. She is also responsible for making sure things at CCSR run smoothly turning BHAGs (big, hairy, audacious goals) into practical reality. After completing her MBA in 1994, Myrna worked for 8 years in the corporate world specializing in client relationship management and consulting. Myrna held various management positions with Canadian corporations including Canadian National Railway as a member of their Initial Public Offering team, as financial planning officer, and as National Account Manager for some of CN's most strategic customers. She also helped lead the creation of a consulting division for Canada's leading corporate travel management company. Myrna has her MBA in International Business from McGill University, her BSc (dist.) in Psychology from the University of Alberta, and has completed the Advanced Program for International Management at Copenhagen Business School. In 1998, Myrna and her husband Andrew sold all their belongings and undertook a yearlong backpacking trek across Asia. After their adventure, they settled in Vancouver where they now revel in the great outdoors and learn to love the rain.

Paula Martin

Paula Martin is Senior Vice-President, Member Engagement at Vancity, Canada's largest credit union. Vancity is known as a thought leader in community leadership and for providing excellent service to its 400,000 members in Vancouver, the Fraser Valley, Victoria and Squamish. Paula's portfolio encompasses Marketing, Public Affairs + Corporate Communications, Online Strategy & Community Engagement, and Innovation. Prior to joining Vancity, Paula served as Director of Public Affairs at the University of British Columbia, where she was responsible for overseeing UBC's internal and external communications programs, with a focus on public issues management. Before entering the public affairs and communications profession, Paula worked as a journalist for many years, first as a reporter with the Winnipeg Free Press and then as a producer with CBC Radio's national radio current affairs program, As It Happens. Paula has served the community on the boards of various organizations, including Canadian Business for Social Responsibility, the Vancity Community Foundation, Leadership Vancouver, and Volunteer Vancouver.

Johanna Ward

Johanna Ward admittedly has the best gig around! "Hosting The Express... what's it like? It's like seeing a new world everyday. But a world full of possibilities – where people are passionate, and committed, and really excited to share their stories." The host of Vancouver's premier lifestyle magazine program The Express, Johanna joined the team in September of 2005. It was a logical step from her previous role as the co-host of GO! Magazine on CHEK 6 in Victoria. Proud to be 100% west coast, Johanna was born and raised on Vancouver Island started her broadcasting path at Camosun College's Applied Communication Program in 2002. When she's not at music festivals, sporting events, wine tastings or any other oh-my-word-you-just-have-to-try-this-amazing-place-to-be in the lower mainland....where is she? Probably dancing! Johanna also volunteers with the YWCA's Connect to Success Mentorship program, the YGirls Summer day camps and more programs promoting healthy living.